

ABOUT EQUAL OPPORTUNITY AT MACMILLAN

Macmillan is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to reflecting a broad representation of differences -- race, ethnicity, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, physical ability, age, family status, economic background and status, geographical background and status, and perspective -- in our workplace.

One of our companies, Bedford Freeman & Worth Publishing Group, LLC, dba Macmillan Learning, has developed an affirmative action program in compliance with the New York Department of Education's guidance. Portions of the affirmative action program are available for review by applicants and employees by contacting Macmillan's Human Resources department in the US: Human.Resources@macmillan.com.
